Repair Labs

Volunteers at a Repair Cafe might have skills in fixing various items, such as clothing, electronics, bicycles, small appliances, and more. It's also a great opportunity for people to learn how to repair things themselves

Smash Labs

That's how the Smash Lab Gadget Guts Workshop was born, a "tear-apart table" set up alongside our regular Repair Café events, where kids get to safely take apart anything beyond repair and discover what's actually inside. No pressure to fix it. No wrong way to do it. Just curiosity, a screwdriver, and the deeply satisfying click of a casing finally popping open.

Seniors' Climate Caravan Stops in Regina

On September 10, EnviroCollective joined the Regina send-off for the Western Canada Seniors' Climate Caravan. Seniors, people of faith and allies travelled to Ottawa in electric vehicles for Seniors' Climate Witness. September 19 to 24, calling for stronger climate commitments and a just and fair path to funded fossil fuel phase-out. Travellers, hosts and supporters shared breakfast at Prairie Spruce before the send-off, where ECN Chair Rob Deglow announced a $1,000 gift to the caravan from one of our supporters. Local volunteers provided billets and overnight stops. The caravan is raising its one seniors pricing climate action has no age limit

University of Regina Volunteer Fair

On September 23, EnviroCollective joined the University of Regina's Volunteer Fair, and it was a busy one! New and returning students stopped by to learn how to get involved. For many, volunteering is a chance to learn more about the community around them. For students who are new to Regina or far from home, it's a great way to meet local residents and build connections. Thanks to everyone who stopped by!

Coffee and Connection

On September 22, EnviroCollective joined colleagues from across Regina's environmental sector for Coffee and Connection at the Safe Café in the Conexus Building. The come-and-go morning was a relaxed chance to catch up with old friends, meet new ones, and hear what's been happening across the sector. Events like this remind us that the work of building a greener, more caring community is rarely done alone, and we're grateful for the chance to connect.

Our History

Embark the lifelong journey behind the scenes

Learn the History

Started in Regina, Saskatchewan in the fall of 2018, the EnviroCollective has become a networking hub for climate education, action and resource sharing. The organization has taken a nonpartisan approach to climate action by being a hub for community engagement and dialogue around climate action and to be a key partner to organizations, businesses and various levels of government looking for a wider audience. By building upon shared values rather than partisan divides we empower our supporters and partners to continue to echo the concerns of their local communities in working towards the adoption of fair, effective, and sustainable climate change solutions
